

DRAWING OF THE YEAR 2014

International Student Competition

Aarhus School of Architecture, schmidt hammer lassen architects, VOLA, and Danish Arts Foundation, proudly announce a joint venture 'Drawing of the Year 2014'. We invite entries from students of architecture schools all over the world. The internationally acclaimed jury will be looking to award drawings that inspire, communicate and engage in the question of «Transformation Through Architecture». The drawing substantive theme places a focus on architecture's ambition to take an active part in the change of our society and asks how architecture can contribute to transformation of the physical environment of all scales - concepts, utopias, buildings, landscapes and cities? Drawing is seen as a media production and dissemination of thoughts and dreams. The recipient should be invited to wonder, be moved and involved in drawing as recognition and discussion of architecture. The competition is thus seen as an opportunity to demonstrate the potential discourse for discussing and developing architectural ideas laid down through the art of drawing on paper. It is to celebrate the architects' oldest tool as a relevant media for development of ideas and communicating their craft. Drawings are exhibited at Aarhus School of Architecture in December 2014.
